The Plantation Grounds at Stone Mountain Park

There is adventure in sound...

Since 1984, the Atlanta Radio Theatre Company has been performing, recording, and broadcasting dramatic audio - fully dramatized, fully sound-scaped audio drama. We set the scene. We give you voices, sound effects, music, and ambient atmosphere. In your imagination you build the sets, you give faces to the voices, you design the costumes.

This is the "Theatre of the Mind," as practiced in the Golden Age of Radio. By combining today's modern technology and dramatic techniques with the oldest form of entertainment, the human imagination, you have the best seat in the house for the most vivid movie you will ever see.

When we were approached with the invitation to perform at Stone Mountain’s Frontier Days festival, we were very excited to get the opportunity. After all, we had just concluded our second year performing our seasonal piece, An Atlanta Christmas, as part of their Fruitcake Festival, and saw this as a way to help solidify the mutually beneficial relationship we were developing with the park.

Then we found out the theme of the festival: Georgia, between the Revolutionary War and the Civil War. ARTC was founded 20 years ago, in 1984, but we must admit that our specialties lie in the realms of science fiction, fantasy, and horror. Our selection of material that was suitable for this festival was a bit thin.

But then we found ourselves seized by the pioneering spirit, if you’ll pardon the pun, and we refused to allow a mere lack of programming stop us from being a part of this event.

Eleven new audio scripts were generated, written, rehearsed, and rewritten over the course of the last three months, overlapping our other projects. Our writers are truly to be commended for rising to the occasion and providing us with material on such short notice.

The process has been enriching for us all. And the quality of the work being produced here is sufficient that plans are being formed to commit this production to a studio recording. We hope you enjoy the show. And remember...
